SIXTIES

WHAT IT WAS, WHAT IT WASN'T

By R.G. Davis

When I first talked to Edith Kramer about doing a series of films about the 1960's at the Pacific Film Archive, I had a number of things in mind. I wanted to add a cultural overview to the Free Speech Movement rallies, which had just occurred and which had in the main, bypassed cultural activities. I also wanted to intervene in the reevaluation of the period by adding a dash of critical spice and thereby perhaps head off just another nostalgic filmic remembrance of Left history.

A reassessment of the decade was also timely for me since I had been asked to be a part of a celebration for the San Francisco Mime Troupe. Someone had decided it should be a 25-year celebration- (sic), incorrectly dating things from 1959 rather than 1963. I objected to the historical manipulation and the idea of a "celebration"... celebration of what? Once again, it was just another chance for a groovy California party. I suggested a more critically engaging event, but there was no interest from that quarter. Thus, the Pacific Film Archive proposal came at the right time.

The film showings and the tapes of the panels afterward (which will be aired Mondays in July at 12 noon on KPFA) are the result of a general view that the political activism of the 60's swam in a sea of cultural developments, not merely counter-cultural activism but an expanding experimentation in the arts.

I discussed the idea with Peter Gessner and Arlene Golbard, who outlined a precise look at the period. Edith thought that whatever program we were able to put together (to be presented in February, 1985), it would probably not be terribly successful. After all, the "campus was conservative: 73 or some such percentage of students voted for Reagan." But since that time, things have changed and Edith, as well as the rest of us, is pleased that our sense of the current times was not accurate as the "inactive" have become activated and outraged by apartheid.

Two months after the PFA panels, I still had the sixties on my mind when I asked some friends, at the April 20th March and at later demonstrations at Biko Plaza, if they thought the anti-apartheid movement would spill over into greater activism. A number cautiously said yes, and a sociologist/activist from New York wrote that "all U.S. political movements began with demonstrations and aggressive attacks on slavery, civil rights, racism." Other people closer to the demonstrations have pointed out that speakers make connections between South Africa and Reagan's macho militarism in Central America while others are connecting Israel's military aid to "authoritarian leaders" - the general friends of Jeanne Kirkpatrick.

In the middle of the Apartheid demonstrations and the arrests over U.S. support for the Contras, a couple of wealthier new-lefties decided to serialize their rejection of the Left. Peter Collier and David Horowitz, both former editors of Ramparts, have come out of their political closets, slambanging the sixties and declaring they voted for Reagan.

Their syndicated revelations attacked Tom Hayden for being a mouthy revolutionary, said some snippy things about Fidel Castro, the Soviets, the Vietnamese and one-time revolutionary Eldridge Cleaver. Their article, which was first seen in the Washington Post and later reprinted in both the Oakland Trib- une and San Francisco Examiner, is a reminder of similar writings in the 1950's when the left was also under attack.

How wonderful that immediately after Horowitz and Collier came out declaring themselves rich backers of Republicans (their income, incidentally, is now over $90,000 a year apiece), the divestiture movement came into focus, and Reagan made his devastating trip to Bitburg. Collier and Horowitz are now proudly associated with the neo- and pseudo-friends of fascism. Their timing was fortuitous.

But the case of Collier and Horowitz is nonetheless important. We now have a carefully documented example of a turn-around - not as in the bizarre case of Eldridge Cleaver, but with two little ol' white boys who were radicals in the sixties and were part of the movement. No matter how annoying and shocking their confessions might be, they force the rest of us to reassess not only what they wrote and did, but also what we ourselves thought about those activities they now so crassly debase.

History is not fiction. However, it is full of subjective observations, especially when that history is so close and part of one's own involvement. Discussing the sixties is akin to unraveling a baseball. First one has to rip off the cover of hardened memory and delusion, then then pick at one strand until it breaks, and then another and another, pulling and scratching through it all.

In our discussions at the PFA, the illusions were in full force, the uncritical minds were in the majority, the "who cares" bunch was small, and the critical evaluators were mostly on the panels. The closer an activist was to the street, the more the rhetoric was audible - some people longingly defend their own mistakes and illusions. Others (not at the sessions, for who would dare show up to such an obvious pro-sixties event?) deride the decade as a period of great deception and strident radical moralism.

One of the better assessments of the sixties I've seen is by Frederick Jameson in The 60's Without Apologies, which places the decade in a periodized view of history:

"We have described the 60's as a moment in which the enlargement of capitalism on a global scale simultaneously produced an immense freeing or unbinding of social energies, a prodigious release of untheorized new forces: the ethnic forces of black and 'minority' or third world movements everywhere, regionalisms, the development of new and militant bearers of 'surplus consciousness' in the student and women's movements, as well as in a host of struggles of other kinds."

"... (However) the great explosions of the 60's have led, in the worldwide economic crisis to powerful restorations of the social order and a renewal of the repressive power of the various state apparatuses."

What, then, happened to all the liberating actions? William C. Dowling, in a review of Jameson's thoughts, says that collective transformation of social reality was turned into a mere ideology of personal and individual ecstasy. And with the parade of fashions, ice-cream/yogurt stands, and gourmet restaurants, is that not partially true?

Jameson ends his article with the observation that the 60's was a superstructural movement, while global capitalism in the 80's may "unify the unequal, fragmented or local resistances" into a traditional division of upper, middle and working classes.

Can we analyze the sixties and thereby understand the eighties?

Recent activities have encouraged many. Students have, as in the past, given renewed hope to older radicals. The belly of the monster still grumbles. Students are known to be the first to erupt: in Greece, Nicaragua, Cuba, Paris, Berkeley, Columbia. Yet student radicalism is erratic and tuned to quarter or semester systems. Longer-term insiders such as Nader's Raiders have proven that legal, administrative and lobbying pressure produces results. Thus, there are two paths out there now: yet no matter which path is taken, the substantive problem remains. Do we have a deep and elaborate enough critique of the right and of the liberals to make any significant and irreversible changes? David Wellman, in a conversation, made note that "the sixties Left critique of the liberals had been taken over by the Right," and now, where is the Left's critique?

At the Archive, we had hoped to engage the subjects overlooked during the 20th anniversary of the Free Speech Movement and include cultural work that had been a big part of the 60's. We did not include as much cultural material as I would have liked, since much was not on film and the film documents were (necessarily) of the most obvious political elements: SDS, Black Panthers, street fighting, agitation, etc. We began with a film by Bruce Conner, an independent film-maker who was not "political" but is certainly independent, followed by Bruce Bailey's Mass for the Dakota Sioux. Then we crossed over into the rock and roll industry for Don't Look Back, a cinema verite ikon film by Pennebaker. Tape music composers, painters, theatre and dance experiments were not represented. To balance the lack at the film showings, I've added, to the programs aired on KPFA, music from the 60's: Morton Subotnik and Ramon Sender. Sender founded the SF Tape Music Center 1960-61, and Subotnik worked with the San Francisco Actors Workshop until 1963. I've also added some Terry Riley (who presented In C in 1964) and Steve Reich, who composed music for Ubu Roi, the Mime Troupe's 1963 indoor production. I also added some Grateful Dead. We ended the series with Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000, which we thought would introduce a European view of the U.S. movement. Paris, Berlin, Milan and Rome all erupted in part because of North American resistance to the war in Vietnam. In addition, the intellectual, Marxist, socialist, and communist analyses of capitalism in Europe were far more acute than their American counterparts. J.P. Gorin and Todd Gitlin, in their argument heard during the last segment, illustrate the European and North American points of view in their disagreements over the very much loved Jonah film.

R.G. Davis is a freelance stage director, teaches part-time at San Francisco State University. He founded the R.G. Davis Mime Troupe (1959); the San Francisco Mime Troupe (1963); Epic West (1975); and is currently writing a book, The Making of Left Culture Under Adverse Circumstances.

The series, The Sixties: What It Was, What It Wasn't, is heard Monday July 1, 8, 15, 22 at 12:00 noon.

THE SIXTIES THE SIXTIES THE SIXTIES

KPFA is a $9,000 watt listener-sponsored community radio station broadcasting to most of Northern California. KPFB is a 150 watt station for areas of Berkeley that cannot receive KPFA. The address is 2207 Shattuck Avenue, Berkeley, CA 94704 (415) 848-6767. The station is licensed to the Pacifica Foundation and broadcasts at a frequency of 94.1 MHz. Subscriptions are available at $40/yr ($20 low income), $2 of which underwrites the cost of one year's Folio subscription. The KPFA Folio (USPS 937-360) is published 11 times/yr. and is distributed to all subscribers. Second class postage paid at Berkeley, CA. The KPFA signal is also aired in Fresno through station KFCF (88.1 MHz, PO Box 4364, Fresno CA 93744 (209) 233-2221) and through station K21SAK, FM91, Box 91-21843 Russian River Ave., Villa Grande, CA 95486 (707) 865-1516. Pacifica also broadcasts in New York (WBAT, 99.5 MHz, 505 8th Ave., New York NY 10018 (212) 279-0707); Los Angeles (KPEK, 90.7 MHz, 3729 Cahuenga, North Hollywood, CA 91604 (818) 985-2711; Houston (KPFT, 90.1 MHz, 419 Lovett Blvd., Houston, TX 77006 (713) 526-4000); Washington, D.C. (WPFW, 89.3 MHz, 700 H St. NW, Washington, DC 20001 (202) 783-3100). Programs broadcast on all Pacifica stations are available from Pacifica Archives, 5316 Venice Blvd., LA CA 90019 (213) 931-1625. KPFA augments its programming with information and material from: Africa News Service, Associated Press, Pacifica Archives, Reuters. KPFA is not responsible for unsolicited manuscripts or tapes submitted to the station. All written material (unless otherwise indicated) in this Folio copyright 1985 Pacifica Foundation. All unsigned Off-Mike articles written by Richard Wolinsky.

Report to the Listener

This report is written early in KPFA's June Marathon when anxieties about the goal run high. These worries were further fueled by a sudden downturn in renewal revenues in May and June. Thus, the possibilities do arise that KPFA will meet its marathon goals but still fall short of subscription projections because current subscribers have failed to renew. This is the same pattern of the last two summers, and we are hopeful the emergency fund-raising of past years will not be necessary.

On July 2nd, KPFA resumes its postponed planning process. Earlier committee meetings regarding goal-setting led to three rather long staff meetings with dwindling attendance. Although goals were eventually set by the consensus of the remaining staff, the process proved wearisome to many of us and led to a hiatus in the next step. Marathons, of course, tend to drain energy from all other activity.

Flo Green, a nationally known planning consultant, arrives at KPFA on July 2nd as part of her tour of Pacifica. I thought our readers might enjoy a look at her agenda so that you, too, can participate by mail. Essentially Ms. Green tries to concentrate on five questions as part of her planning workshops (I recently attended one at a Pacifica National Board meeting):

1. What does Pacifica want to do?
2. What does Pacifica need to do?
3. What can Pacifica do?
4. What will Pacifica decide to do?
5. What will Pacifica finally do?

Flo Green will be asking these questions throughout a two-day workshop at each of the Pacifica stations.

She has provided me with a very detailed agenda. With some interpretation and liberal editing on my part, the KPFA workshop's agenda looks something like this:

A. Clearly State the Mission of KPFA.

This part of the process was the portion begun in April with the help of an outside facilitator, Bernice Lee. We will examine the goals set in those discussions and attempt to look at our organizational structure and our current situation (i.e. current programs, governance and finances).

B. Environmental Analysis.

This part of the planning is already in process. It is an attempt to analyze the needs of the community and to assess "environmental trends." We can hopefully identify five or six areas which are keys to KPFA's future.

C. Categorize Programs.

This is not simply with regard to on-air programs, but projects that are currently occurring at KPFA, as well as our on-air sound.

D. Internal Analysis.

This is an analysis of our current policies and programs. Are they consistent? Do we have clear priorities that are being carried out? Are our priorities also the same as our allocation of resources? What kind of evaluation and quality analysis are implemented?

E. Identify Inconsistencies Between Policies and Mission.

This includes a look at particular constraints on the station, including those of funding, constituencies, etc.

F. Competitive Analysis.

KPFA no longer has the community radio band to itself. What do we do best? What do we do poorly? What are our crucial goals, values, strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats?

G. Strategy Formulation.

Can we identify areas where we can operate effectively? Where do we have support and allies? Where is our competence and commitment? Where can we achieve decisive results that fit our mission?

H. Long-Range Plan.

What are our goals for the future? Can we define objectives for the next three years? And who will be responsible for what? What specific changes are required in structure, resources and training?

As you can tell, this will be a tough two days. Wish us luck.

If you recently received a mailing from KPFA in which we asked former subscribers to welcome themselves back to KPFA and you are already receiving the Folio, you are in our computer twice. We can consolidate our records and save future mailing costs if you send back the response card, along with the label from this Folio in the business reply envelope we sent you. We appreciate your assistance in eliminating duplicate records from our files.

COMMENTS ON NEWS

Dear KPFA,

I tuned in for the KPFA evening news on Saturday night. I was actually pleasantly surprised to hear a newscast on KPFA with analysis. And when I realized how surprised I was, mainly because the KPFA news used to have such good news with great analysis, I decided that I had to write. Karen Sundheim and Elaine Corey did the news. When a story appeared on Kuwait, I heard a whole run-down on the situation there (including historical information). It was quite refreshing.

Since Aileen Alfandary took over the news, the freshness and intellect from the KPFA news disappeared. All too often I hear the same sentence used to describe Lebanon or the democrats or whatever. There is never new information or ideas presented. (When KPFA covered the demo convention the analysis was no different than the multi-media sources). I even heard the call-in show about the news a few months ago. I thought what a shame it was that most of my colleagues had already stopped listening to the evening news long ago and would probably not even know that they could call-in their comments.

I actually do not know whether writing this letter is really worth it. Change, except for the worse, rarely comes to KPFA. There must be some way to cut off the dead wood and make KPFA once again a vital force in the community. The news is what initially drew me to KPFA many years ago and I am afraid that the news is now drawing me away from that same KPFA.

A couple of more comments regarding the news. When there are talented people out there like Karen Sundheim, Elaine Corey, Matt Lazar (they put out decent stories), why do people like Casey Kelso get the attention? (He sounds like he should be reading children's stories not the news. And where is the information in his stories). I don't mean to pick on him for he is only one example of what I think must be poor training. I think that a real mistake is being made in the news department and lots of listeners are being lost as well.

I really enjoy Reyna Cowan, Julia Randall and Prime Time. However I feel resentful when they are the ones that I am learning new information from when the news used to be such a fertile ground for me. KPFA I urge you to take a hard look at the news department. There is so much potential there that is not being utilized. (One of the stories on Saturday night had a BBC report. It was very refreshing to hear on KPFA. Why not more reports by them?) And I don't think anyone would object to such a change that would only improve KPFA. What do we have to lose?

David Roshman

MARATHON SEND-OFF

Dear Friends at KPFA:

I just realized that this is another marathon time and I felt that a letter right now from an avid listener would be an appropriate send-off.

I have been a member for the last three years and because your marathon programming has been so exceptional, I almost can't help but take out one or two more memberships for friends or people in prison.

I do feel that your last (February) marathon was so exceptional that I was glued to the radio almost all day. . . even the pledge breaks were very interesting at times. I felt that you all, as a station, have developed an even greater level of self-assurance that the service that you are offering is of ever-increasing importance and quality. At least I hope that was and is the case because that fact is true.

In reading the Folio, I realize that this marathon is also going to be another fantastic listening experience for us, your listening audience and I want you to know that I'm sure that we can hear the incredible work on all levels that you are putting into your programming and that we out here really appreciate it.

Thank you for your work and the sincere devotion of your time and energy.

Jim Levin

Pros & Cons

QUICKIES

Dear Folks: I didn't know that classical music had anything much to offer me until I heard Ellen Holmes' program Adagio Recordings on your station, the other night. Thanks a million for turning me on, Ellen, and can you possibly persuade them to schedule your show at a more civilized hour? (I have to work on Monday.) Best of luck, Laura James

To the Editor: I listened to Radio Watching TV discussing soap operas by Corless Smith. The views on this program seemed to be contradictory. On the one hand, the speakers espoused Jerry Manders' book which sees TV as a corrosive element, basically destructive and a substitute/escape from real life. On the other hand, they were proud that they watch soaps like Dallas. What are they saying? I suggest they get clear on the issue if they want to be taken seriously. Miranda Yates/Oakland

Dear KPFA Friends: Yes! Yes! Yes! Please start World Music at night - in addition to the Wednesday morning show. What to replace? A tough choice. Maybe Tuesday night garage bands. . . ? The World Music show is both a superb joy and a crucial building block toward world peace. Kenneth Maue/Mill Valley

Dear KPFA: As a new subscriber, I beg you to do more Hildegard von Bingen. Your Folio arrived two days late so I missed the Monday night H. von B. liturgical drama Ordo Virtutum. Please do it again and soon! Any others of hers also. Kathleen Burgoyne/Mill Valley

KPFA: Just a short note to let you know how nice last Sunday's radio was with no Sokol. I think his borrring program would do well late at night, when it would do wonders for putting chronic insomniacs to sleep. Sincerely, T. Baskin/San Francisco

Dear KPFA, Last night I accidentally discovered a superlative program on 94.1: Adagio Recordings, playing only quiet, exceptionally beautiful selections of classical music. I've never heard a program anything like this and I only wish you'd give it an earlier time slot as most of us have to get up early on Monday morning. Man does not live by radical politics alone - restoration of the spirit is an equally important function of avant-garde radio, and that is what this program provides. We need it! Let more of us hear it! Thank you, Mark Gilman/El Cerrito

Dear KPFA: This is to express my love and appreciation to KPFA (my long-time connection with the real world) which gives me much pleasure and information. I especially value the Alan Watts tapes, New Horizons, the Morning Concerts, readings and Kris Welch to do my art by (batik, paper-making etc). Thank you, Jean Lockhart/Davis

Greetings, good brothers & sisters: I recently heard a show entitled Living in the Nuclear Age - A New Way of Thinking No. 37. Is it possible to obtain a copy of these tapes, and could you forward me an address to write to. Your newscasting and programming are first rate! Thank you for all you have put out and will continue to put out. Namaste to you - In the spirit of all that is good and giving. Steve Jones/Santa Cruz. (The host of 'Living in the Nuclear Age' Ralph Steiner, works at KPFA and can be reached here-Ed.)

Dear KPFA People, I recently listened to a delightful program on your Monday Matinee program. It was called "Rebels Without Applause". I am not a supporter of your station, but still listen in whenever I'm in the car (the only radio that picks up your station). Sincerely, Carol Silva/San Jose

KPFA: More salsa & jazz on Ahora, Art Sato's show and Jim Bennett's. Name Withheld

KPFA: I love Bach and Berg and Musica do Brasil but most of all early music. And why I ask isn't Bill Croft on every week like the rest? Even his voice makes me feel medieval which is good. More of same, please. Mary E. Merrill/Berkeley

GREETINGS FROM SONOMA

Dear KPFA:

Greetings from Sonoma County! We finally did receive our Folio. By the way, June is a dynamite month! Absolutely loved the Aldous Huxley interview. What a great mind! Hope you rebroadcast it sometime again.

Also we would like the echo the cries and shouts for more Mama O'Shea!!! I think you should take note that her show is unique, and one of the more essential shows that you have, because Mama deals with issues that need to be talked about. Whereas Will Noffke's show has continued to get more and more off the deep end. . . expounding on totally unessential subjects that most people don't benefit from. We think you should shift Will to Sunday and give Mama her time back. If you listen to her show you will find that the phone-in part is always just warming up and getting somewhere when Mama has to cut off her dialogue so we can hear Pig In A Pen or Panhandle Country. Everyone deserves their time, but it seems inappropriate to frame Mama's show this way. And I don't think that you really have that many listeners for Piggies and Panhandles. I know we always promptly turn off our radio after Mama's show. We used to listen to Will's show but find them becoming wimpier and he hardly ever asks any really challenging questions of his guests anymore, which brings us to his last show. . . with the racist motherf. . . (pardon me!) who thinks that Blacks in S. Africa want (did I hear him say like?) to be treated as slaves. I could say a lot more about the fool, but it would just be wasting paper. And Will just pampered his every whim all through the show. . . Enough about this. You get my point.

Also you might think about the shows that feature important musicians and songwriters (i.e. Neal Young) being put on at a more appropriate time-slot than 9 am.

And last but not least. . . a little more variety on the weekends. This is when people have the most time to listen so you should try more types of music, jazz, blues, rock, gospel, reggae, etc. At this point it seems that Latin music takes up more time on the weekends than fair for your diversified audiences.

Oh yes, one more thing. We really love your station and there's nothin' like it on this earth. Keep up the great work! We'll keep listening and supporting with what we can, cause it would be hard to live without you. May KPFA always have good fortune and plenty of dough to keep the ball rolling!

Kevin & Uma Valentine

CABLE CHANGES

Dear KPFA,

A few months ago, without alerting the members, our local cable company changed the cable number for KPFA from 96 to 92. It took me two months to realize what had happened and to find KPFA again. During that blank period I realized how much I rely on KPFA to keep me 'connected' to the outside world. The night I found KPFA again, I heard the first decent news broadcast in two months; the next morning I tuned into Kris Welch's show and heard two cuts from the beautiful album "Si Buscabas." I know that summer is usually hard on you folks moneywise - so here's a small check with my thanks.

P.S. Actually an odd twist accompanied cable's move of KPFA. Changing your station to 92 has resulted in much better reception - but has allowed quite strong reception of a fundamentalist Christian radio station on your old frequency. Searching for KPFA on the radio dial became a truly Kafka-esque experience. I thought that Jesse Helms really was taking over the airwaves.

Joan Hawkins/Santa Cruz

MORE QUICKIES

KPFA: We would like to commend Casey Kelso for his excellent coverage of our May 16 University Hall blockade. Mr. Kelso went beyond the image of wheelchairs chained together to discuss the issues that brought about our action: the Regents' exclusionary tactics and, most importantly, our deep commitment to the fight against the constitutional exclusion that is apartheid. As a group and individually we will continue to apply pressure for full divestment in whatever way we can, and it helps to know we can trust KPFA to continue its policy of informing rather than entertaining news listeners. Our thanks to Mr. Kelso and to KPFA for your sensitivity and fine work. Cheryl Wade for the Disabled Caucus/Berkeley

Dear KPFA: Thanks for the welcome back! I hadn't realized I'd not supported you last year! Bummer! Here's a check for this year and for last year. I never intended to let it lapse! Tho I only am in Bay Area a month or so a year to listen I love to keep up with a Folio. Keep up the good work. Love, Lesley Lathrop/Oakland N.J.

KPFA: Please keep Mary Tilson on the air. I remember her from KFAT! Dan Breaux

Beedle Um Bum Larry: I woke up at 3:45 this morning (so I could tape So Comfortable) to Harriet Tubman, the Weavers, Judy Small, Charlie King and Bright Morning Star. That set was particularly inspiring and nurturing for me. I had had an unwelcome, racist, misogynous houseguest for the weekend and had been questioning why I had not spoken up to him more than I did. As always, music helps me center myself and you were saying with music the things I needed to hear. Thanks, Lynn Tunstall/Oakland

Hi - I initially withheld my pledge with a letter of explanation, in protest over the early Monday morning broadcast of Over The Edge - a horror to a delicate pre-work mind, and probably to any mind, really. When it finally was removed, I was broke. I still am, but this (renewal) letter works. Thanks, Jack McGuire/Oakland

Dear Everyone at KPFA: Thank you all for the fine programs. I'm addicted most especially to World Music, News, Ahora, Hearts of Space, and the inimitable Kris Welch. Love you all, Paula

END OF HAITUS

Dear KPFA,

I'm a recent re-subscriber after a many year hiatus. It became almost mandatory for me to subscribe since I began listening at work a few months ago and became addicted to your morning/early afternoon programs.

When thinking about writing this letter, I began to list in my mind all the shows I particularly like: and the list became endless. . . Mama O'Shea, Blues By The Bay, the Morning Reading, Jennifer Stone, P. McGillicuddy, New Horizons, the Middle Eastern and World Music.

Frankly, the diversity is great and the quality dependable. Oh, Dr. John's Cafe. How many others did I miss? I love it all. Keep it up.

Claudia Woodward/Oakland

FINDING DIVERSITY

Dear KPFAers:

Just a note of appreciation. . . In this day and age of predigested thought and music it is still wonderfully refreshing to be able to tune into KPFA and find diversity and unanswered questions. I don't often get to listen to daytime radio but whenever I do I am never disappointed. There is either more wonderful exotic music, interesting readings or political commentary going on.

Right now I am especially loving the Celtic program, A Terrible Beauty, Will Noffke and all political coverage. I will also put a word in for more Hawaiian music. It is very hard to find real Hawaiian music tapes here on the mainland. Keep up the great work. Let's keep KPFA going forever lest we lose our minds to the corporate brain-numbers.

Are you
banking on apartheid?

If you've left your money in an ordinary bank or money market fund, chances are that some of it's working night and day to strengthen apartheid in South Africa.

Money you've set aside could also be financing missiles and warheads, nuclear power, or job discrimination in the United States. Because bankers invest your savings where they—not you—see fit.

A Practical Alternative

Now there's a sure way to earn high current interest—without supporting apartheid. At Working Assets Money Fund, your money works for, not against, your principles. For example, we carefully avoid investing your money in companies that have operations in South Africa, manufacture weapons or produce nuclear power.

Higher Interest, Too

Alone at Last

By Rana Lee

The following article was written by Rana Lee in 1983 as she remembered her first week after running from her battering husband. It was printed in the 'Mid-Peninsula Shelter Network Newsletter' and is being reprinted here due to interest and requests. Rana is currently KPFA's domestic violence programmer.

I've left him. I really did it! We're getting a divorce. He is demanding everything and is getting it. I don't care. All I want is to be free of him. But now what do I do? I've never felt so alone in my entire life. My young teenaged son is ecstatic. He hates his stepfather and has lived in fear of him for too long. Yet I'm alone. Does my son feel my loneliness? He hates this apartment. It's too far from his friends and he doesn't like the kids in this apartment complex. Well, he will. He just needs time to adjust, and this is the only apartment I can afford for now.

Is that what I need? Time to adjust? I need to be hugged. Who can I ask? No one really understands. My friends and family think I am very happy now because I am free of this man who abused me. "Oh, it's so wonderful," they say. "I didn't like him from the start," says a friend. "You should have done it years ago," says another.

That's so easy for them to say, but it's my insides that kept turning over and over again in fear. I keep dreaming he's yelling at me... and I am so alone.

Why am I shaking?

The phone is ringing. Why does it scare me so? I jump inside as if it's a gunshot next to my head. "Hello — oh, it's you. Why are you calling? No, I don't want to see you. I won't give you my new address. I really don't want to talk right now. My son? He's fine — quite happy. How is your daughter? Good. Well, good-bye."

Back to the problem at hand. I'm alone but I don't have to live in fear of doing something that will upset him. Or do I? If I keep hanging up on him and he finds my address, will he come here and throw another tantrum, hit me, break things? After all, he did come to my job this week, took my car, held a knife to me to get me to call my parents to have them buy my car back. He knows I need a car for my work. My parents are very angry with me. Will I ever make them understand?

I'll kill him and myself before I go through it again. Dear God! What did I just say? "kill?" No, I mustn't. I must calm down. I'll have another drink. That will help.

It's so quiet. I want someone to hold me. Oh, well, I'll have one more drink and then turn in. My head is spinning. It's a nice feeling. Then, why am I crying? I should be happy. That's what everyone keeps telling me, but the tears keep flowing as I lie here alone in my bed. I feel like I'm being tossed around in a cyclone. Maybe I'll land on the other side of the rainbow like Dorothy and my husband will be the one under the house.

Dear God! What's that? Oh, no, I've had another nightmare. I mustn't wake up my son. He must not know how I feel. He needs to know some peace now that we are free of that man. Free? What a word. I'm not sure what it means. I've traded one prison for another.

I should have gone to the market today. I've finished off the rum. It's funny. With no one to tell me when to sleep and what to buy, I sometimes just don't go. That's no good. Well, I promise, I'll shop tomorrow. I'll ask my son what to buy. After all, I don't want to upset him by getting the wrong food.

I guess I'll try to sleep again. I know. I'll use the sleeping pills I bought at the drugstore. Maybe I won't dream for a while.

"Get away from me! What do you mean, 'You can't go?' I just want to pick the kids up at the movies. Stop it! You're hurting me! Stop banging my head into the cupboards. Please stop."

Oh God, another dream.

Maybe I'll read. That'll help. I've always been able to lose myself in books. Now, why am I crying again? Why doesn't someone come to me to help? Have I been such a bad person all these years that I'm never to know happiness?

I must get some sleep. I'll take two more pills. Maybe I should go back to him. At least he'd send me flowers after the pain and he'd be real nice to me and the kids for a few days... and I wouldn't be alone.

What's the matter with me? I'm safe now. He can't hurt me again. I hope. I'm really not all alone. I have my stuffed bear. I'll hold him tight, he'll absorb the tears, and we'll sleep.

The end.

Rana Lee has been producing domestic violence programs for KPFA since October of 1981. She is the first Domestic Violence Consultant for the Berkeley Unified School District and a new board member of the Western Center on Domestic Violence. Rana ran from her battering relationship on February 9, 1981. She has dedicated her life to teaching other women they can leave abusive relationships and with hard work and determination — make it.

Re-Opening Jewish Wounds

By William Mandel

In May, the New York Association for American-Soviet Friendship invited William Mandel to address its commemoration of the 40th anniversary of the defeat of Hitler. The other principal speaker was UN Soviet Ambassador Oleg Troyanovsky. When Bill, after paying the strongest tribute to the Soviet effort and sacrifice in the war, stated that certain Soviet policies toward its Jews hinder improvement in U.S.-Soviet understanding, the chair asked him to stop speaking. Bill responded that if he were permitted to conclude his speech the matter would not go outside that hall, but if silenced there he would make it public. The chair insisted he not continue, whereupon Bill gave the undelivered portion to WBAI. Here it is, following a condensed version of what he had been allowed to say. By coincidence, the San Francisco Jewish Bulletin has just refused to publish an interview on that subject with Bill, in which he stressed the positive aspects of the Soviet/Jewish scene. The reporter who did the interview resigned in protest.

The older people in this hall know that maintaining good relations between the United States and the Soviet Union has never been easy, not even when we were allies in World War II. . . . When the Soviet forces advanced, those in this country who thought we were fighting on the wrong side argued that Lend-Lease aid to Moscow should be stopped or slowed, because the Russians would win without it. . . . When the Soviets were temporarily thrown back or paused, those who thought we should be fighting "communism" would argue that the Soviets were going to lose, and that our lend-lease would fall into Hitler's hands, and therefore we should stop sending it.

When victory was won, it was followed instantly by the launching of the Cold War. President Truman ordered ships on the high seas with grain and locomotives for the Soviet Union to turn around and head home. Our government secretly brought Nazi rocket experts here, as well as traitors from the Soviet republics that had been under occupation. This was part of a plan to create an alliance with West Germany and Japan, under U.S. control, with the object of destroying the Soviet Union by war when that alliance gained the necessary military superiority. Ideologically, this required destroying the American people's gratitude toward the Soviet Union as an ally.

We in this room fought that. In my book of 1946, I quoted Winston Churchill's address to Parliament, Aug. 2, 1944: "It is the Russian Army which has done the main work of ripping the guts out of the German Army. . . . In the air and on the ocean and seas we can maintain ourselves, but there was no force in the world which could have been called into being except after several more years that would have been able to maul and break the German Army and subject it to such terrible slaughter and manhandling as has fallen upon the Germans but the Russian Soviet Armies." (emphasis added -WM).

Our government did not want this to be remembered, and did not want authors who circulated such information to reach the public. So it put in prison the then-head of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship, Rev. Richard Morford. Whereas I had had four book contracts during the years of World War II, no publisher would touch anything I proposed for the next fifteen years. . .

The index to my new book, Soviet But Not Russian, lists 25 different page references to World War II. I repeat the story told to me by a Jewish woman in the West Ukraine, which many know as Galicia, of how she and her child were saved by being passed from one Ukrainian peasant family to another. I quote a Ukrainian writer, also in Galicia, describing his own experience as a young soldier liberating Auschwitz, and saying to me - this was after the bombing of Beirut: "Today I just can't understand Israel. The Jewish people suffered so much, suffered so many victims." I describe the Lithuanian village of Pricupis, which I visited, where the Nazis burned the inhabitants alive in a barn because they had taken in Jewish children rescued from the ghetto of Vilnius (Vilna).

Two weeks ago, I opened my copy of Pravda for April 24th and saw an article titled "Condemned by Humanity." The first sentence reads as follows: "Among the bloody crimes against humanity committed by the exploiting classes, one of the most onerous is genocide," which is then described as "the physical extermination of entire peoples." Next came a description of the wiping out of a million and a half Armenians by the Turks 70 years ago. We are told the Bolshevik Party condemned this, as did the world socialist conference at Zimmerwald in a document signed by Lenin among others. When the article gets to World War II we read the following:

"On the eve of his bandit attack on Poland in 1939, Hitler inspired his generals to exterminate the Slavic population, citing history. Having set as his goal the destruction of the world's first socialist state, the fascists created death camps and carried out mass murders of Russians, Ukrainians, Belorussians, Jews, and people of other nationalities."

That is the only reference to Jews as a people in the article. Toward its end one reads: "Today, under the protection of the United States, the racists of the Republic of South Africa and the Zionists of Israel are employing a policy of genocide." The article then uses the term "mass extermination" to describe what is happening in Lebanon and South Africa. It equates that to what the U.S. did to the people of Vietnam.

Let me make my position on these matters clear. I was one of 400 people who signed, in the S.F. Chronicle, the first advertisement American Jews condemning absolutely the massacre at Sabra and Chatila under the caption: "Menachem Begin Does Not Speak For Us." One of my sons underwent an 11-week trial for his militant activities against the Vietnam War, and the second has just returned from a 17-year exile in Canada. They learned their principles from their mother and father. I participated in the picketing on the docks of San Francisco of the ship carrying South African cargo that the longshoremen refused to unload, and one of my sons was one of the initiators of the action by the longshoremen's union.

But when Pravda, the official organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, equates the horrible murders of millions of Slavs, intended to reduce them in numbers as the Nuremberg trial evidence proved, with the policy of TOTAL extermination of EVERY SINGLE INDIVIDUAL born a Jew or Gypsy, it justifies the gravest of doubts on the part of a Jewish person.

It re-opens old wounds, awakens old memories. Why did it take seven years after Stalin's death for the very first beginnings at restoration of Yiddish-language culture, destroyed by him in 1947, to appear? Why has the fact of that destruction never been made known to the Soviet people as a whole?

It is good the USSR has published a book titled Beware, Zionism, although I have my doubts about some of the formulations in it. But why is there nothing titled Beware, Anti-Semitism when I still encounter a collective-farm chairman repeating to me the Black-Hundred-type lie that Ford and Rockefeller are Jews, which I report in my new book?

Why is it not possible today to take a course to learn the Yiddish language anywhere in the USSR, unless one is a schoolchild in Birobidjan, where over 99% of the Soviet Union's Jews do not live, or one is a writer admitted to the course in Yiddish literature at the Gorky Institute in Moscow? [It was approximately at this point the chair prevented me from continuing]. Why is there no course on Jewish history anywhere in the USSR, not even under the direct auspices of the Communist Party? Why is there not, for the great majority, who are as linguistically assimilated to Russian as I am to English, a periodical in the Russian language devoted to Jewish interests as there was before World War II?

What I have described is not an anti-Jewish policy. It is applied equally to most peoples - not all - living outside their native territories. One exception is the Armenian literary magazine published in Azerbaijan. And of course there are Russian magazines, theaters, and newspapers in every ethnic republic, in addition to those published in the native languages.

The answer that used to be given to these questions is that this was to prevent centers of nationalism from arising. No answer at all is given nowadays. The subject is a no-no. But the fact that a quarter million Jews have emigrated shows this policy has stimulated nationalism by creating a feeling of ethnic alienation, and clearly destroyed the loyalty of many Jews to their country.

This has the most direct bearing on our purpose here today. There are 150 in this hall. 150 thousand Jewish people marched in a demonstration in this city a few weeks ago to demand unlimited emigration from the USSR. Yes, they were lied to by Zionists, and by the government of Israel, and by the government of the U.S. But an enormous mass like that turns out only when it has at least a very deep feeling of insecurity. And when Pravda refuses to give the unique treatment of the Jews by the Nazis the same recognition it gives that of the Armenians by the Turks, that feeling of insecurity is strengthened. My own feeling is one of outrage, of insult.

The late Yuri Andropov expressed this splendidly in 1982, speaking of "exclusiveness and disrespect for other nations and nationalities. Yet such negative phenomena still occur, and it would be wrong to attribute them solely to the traces of the past. Among other things, they are sometimes fostered by the mistakes we make in our work. Here, comrades, nothing can be dismissed as insignificant. Everything counts - the attitude to language, to artifacts of the past, the interpretation of historical events. . . ." (my emphasis-WM)

The 40th anniversary of the victory over Nazism is past. The job of re-establishing the mutual trust of the American and Soviet peoples of that day remains. We Americans have a tremendous job ahead of us in breaking down the lies that have piled up for 40 years. Our Soviet friends can help by re-examining their policies for any acts of commission or omission that serve to maintain or reinforce mistrust by any part of our population and can be presented to all other Americans as a justification for anti-Sovietism.

Those who have read the chapter on the Jews in my Soviet But Not Russian know that the emphasis is quite the opposite of what I have said this evening. There I was writing for the general public, which has been poisoned by anti-Sovietism. Here I am talking to friends of the Soviet Union, and to Soviet guests, about how to undermine anti-Sovietism.

When two Russians decide they will be friends forever, they drink a toast "na ty i na svoloch," the American equivalent of which is that henceforth they can call each other by their first names and can cuss each other out when one thinks it is for the other's good, and for their mutual good, because they seek only the best for both.

That is the spirit in which I have spoken this evening.

William Mandel shows and discusses his slides on Soviet Jews at the Upstart Crow Bookstore on University at Shattuck, Berkeley, Friday, July 12, 7:30 pm. He focuses on Soviet "Third World" peoples in a slide lecture at Centro Bolivariano de Cultura, 3340 22nd St., S.F., Wednesday, July 3, 8:30 pm. He completes the reading of his autobiography on KPFA Mondays through Thursdays in July at 11:30 pm. His regular show, The Soviet Union: A Closer Look, is heard Mondays at 7:00 pm.

CHILDREN'S HALF HOUR

Starting on July 4th, KPFA begins a nine week series of children's programs, airing on Thursdays at noon. Each week we feature a local musician and storyteller.

The first program features Tubby The Tuba (by popular request). Introduce your children to Tubby and give them a chance to enter a very special contest. After the program, ask your child, aged 3-7 to draw a picture of Tubby and his friends. The winning picture will appear in our October Folio, and your child will win a cassette copy of Tubby; a gift certificate to Cody's Books in Berkeley; cassettes of Gary Lapow, Dan Goldenson and other surprises. The judges will be Kris Welch, Richard Wolinsky and Rana Lee. All pictures must be in KPFA's hands by July 30th.

Send your picture (no larger than 8 1/2 x 11, to Rana Lee, KPFA, 2207 Shattuck Ave., Berkeley, CA 94704.

—Rana Lee

'Children's Half-Hour' begins July 4th at noon. Remember— all submitted pictures must be in our hands by July 30th.

THE END OF YET ANOTHER ERA

The United Nations' "Decade for Women" (1975-1985) is bowing out this month at a gala World Conference in Nairobi, Kenya. On this occasion, the third and final meeting to be held under the auspices of the Decade (the first was in Mexico City in 1975, the second in Copenhagen in 1980), the anointed delegates from participating nations will officially appraise the progress achieved (and obstacles encountered) in their ten-year effort to promote "Equality, Development and Peace." The same body (whose members include Jeanne Kirkpatrick and Maureen Reagan) will announce "forward-looking strategies of implementation for the advancement of women." It will be interesting to discover what these strategies might be, considering the U.S. delegation's vow to avoid discussing anything of a political nature. This is a scene that has obviously been set for international confrontations.

And when things get hot, you won't be left out. KPFA will be bringing you exclusive reports on behind-the-scenes action, as well as stories too important to make the network news. A team of Pacifica producers, including KPFA news reporter Betsy Bayha and yours truly (Adi Gevins), will be sending scoops and analyses for broadcast on the KPFA News and Majority Report. We'll also be sending stories from the unofficial conference, which is probably of more interest to KPFA listeners than the government-sanctioned confab.

Concurrently, and also in Nairobi, thousands of women from around the world are gathering for an open forum to exchange ideas and experiences and to challenge the boundaries of their lives. This Forum '85 is open to anyone who can get there, and most of the participants are deeply committed women who have struggled mightily to get the funds to make the trip (Nairobi is over 2500 miles from Lagos, Nigeria; 11,000 miles from California). They are political organizers, grassroots activists, government officials, and regional planners. They have expertise in areas as diverse as health delivery, agriculture, appropriate technology, law, communications and education. They will share their knowledge in symposia, workshops, conversations and a festival of women's culture.

Taking place in Africa, the gathering has the potential of becoming a cauldron for a new global feminism: one that includes such women's issues as basic literacy (women make up about 500 million of the world's estimated 600 million illiterate adults); water (almost 2/3 of the world's women spend 2-8 hours a day bearing water for their homes); and disruption caused by war, starvation, and racial injustice (90% of all refugees are women and children).

Unfortunately all of you who should be there won't be able to attend. . .but you won't be left out. A multi-cultural crew of some of the country's most accomplished radio producers will be your eyes and ears. And although five producers can only hope to cover a fraction of this multi-faceted event, we promise to bring back programming that will share the excitement, confrontation and intimate moments. . .programming that will draw you into the international networks that are being formed. The final product of this venture will be a series of five half-hour documentary programs, The Family of Women: Stories From A World Gathering, which will be released for distribution in celebration of International Women's Day on March 8, 1986.

The Family of Women is the brainchild of Helene Rosenbluth, the producer of Feminist Magazine on KPFA's sister station, KPFA in Los Angeles. Working with her, in addition to myself, will be Elisabeth Perez Luna (producer of the award winning Latino Voices series), Judi Moore Smith (creator of the Expressions series exploring the artistic dimension of Afro-American cultural tradition), and Karen Michel McPherson (an independent producer specializing in programs about indigenous peoples). The series is made possible by a grant from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting's Satellite Program Development Fund, and generous contributions from individual donors and the support of KPFA.

—Adi Gevins

Adi Gevins is a member of KPFA's Public Affairs Department. She has spent the decade producing programs for Pacifica stations and nurturing the efforts of radio documentary producers around the country. Among the numerous honors for her work is the coveted Peabody Award.

DRAMA & LITERATURE: Alive and Well on KPFA

KPFA's Drama and Literature Department may have seemed a bit on the quiet side lately, but that's about to change with a series of new programs and new ideas.

During the summer, the Department will be airing three-minute short "Horrible Horror Quickies," with material culled from our audience. Producer Steph Christes is looking for material from all age groups. For more information, call him at (415) 821-9927. Steph is currently "Mr. Christes," the butler and producer on Don Bleu's morning show at KYUU. He can also be heard on some of KPFA's Radio Dramas and Evening Readings.

KPFA will also be airing a series of discussions concerning the sixties and its culture/counterculture, discussions taped at a recent Pacific Film Archives Retrospective. For more information about these programs, heard the first four Mondays of July at noon, see the lead article written by S.F. Mime Troupe founder R.G. Davis.

Radio Drama continues to loom large in the Department's overall picture, with two exciting productions scheduled: On July 28 at 7 pm, we air Edward Bond's Black Mass, produced especially for KPFA by Nevada/Adams Radio Production; and in August, we air The War in Heaven by Sam Shepard and Joseph Chaiken, produced, composed and directed by Shepard himself at WBAI, our sister station.

Erik Bauersfeld, KPFA's Drama & Literature Director, was stunned by the program: "It's utterly remarkable. One of the best things I've heard."

The Evening Reading in July comes from KPFA's Soviet Affairs analyst Bill Mandel. Over the course of the past year, he's been reading his autobiography, A Part of My Own Country, on our air. In July, we devote the entire Evening Reading series to this work. Many people have written in to say they wanted more. . .well, here it is.

Finally, the Morning Reading debuts a new series concerning Latin American authors read by Carlos Baron. In July, he reads from Nicaraguan author Omar Cabezas Lacaya's Fire from the Mountain.

Keep looking in the Folio for more from the department.

S. P. R. CHARTER ON KPFA

It has been nearly 25 years since the pioneer ecologist and philosopher S.P.R. Charter began presenting his weekly series of radio essays on KPFA. These programs, a series of radio essays titled Man-On-Earth, continued for several years and were explorations of ecological and philosophical issues which forecasted many of our present dilemmas. His book, Man-On-Earth, A Preliminary Evaluation of the Ecology of Man, one of the earliest texts on ecology (published in 1962), stemmed directly from these radio essays. In this work, and in the enormous outpouring which was to follow, Charter posed many difficult questions which concern our continued survival on Earth, and acknowledged that we are long past the point of simple solutions. He articulated directions of inquiry which must be explored by individuals who are grounded in their own creativity. According to him, it is only through individuals who assume responsibility for our collective problems, who are centered within their own "autonomous aesthetic" that any hope for the future can be found.

In his extensive forward to Man-On-Earth, Aldous Huxley wrote, "It is the great merit of Charter's book that it compels us to ask such questions. . ." "On the stage of international politics a whole orchestra of Neros. . .insanely fiddle, while all about them. . .Rome burns. We can only hope that some of them will read Charter's essays."

C.P. Snow called Charter ". . .the most fresh-minded of human ecologists, and we are all in his debt." Lewis Mumford commented, "Charter raises all the problems that Man must solve if he is to remain on Earth — or inherit an Earth worth remaining on."

Steven Charter's other books include Outrage, For Unto Us A Child Is Born, The Choice and the Threat, and The Planning Myth. His last book, Chaos and Creativity, has just been published by Joseph Simon. In his recent review of Chaos and Creativity for the Quarterly Review of Biology, Joel Hedgpeth remarked that "the waves from the pebbles (Charter) has dropped in the deep pools of environmental literature will not stop until they reach the wider shore, and of this last achievement those of us who knew him can at least say, 'Well done, good and faithful servant.'"

Steven Charter died in November of 1984 at the age of 69, leaving an enormous body of work, most of which is on audio tape in the form of essays, lectures, and comments. It is with pleasure that KPFA welcomes the return of S.P.R. Charter to its airwaves. Beginning on Sunday, July 7th, his five-minute 'Comments' will be broadcast every Sunday afternoon at approximately 5:25 pm, following the Alan Watts lecture.

Denny notes the 93rd birthday of James M. Cain by letting the postman ring twice, double indemnifying, and meeting Mildred Pierce. No. News at 7 & 8:45; Headlines at 8:00.

9:00 Morning Concert

Speaking of Music at the Exploratorium: An Evening with Elliott Carter. One of America's most influential composers, Elliott Carter, appeared at the Speaking of Music series in the week of his 75th birthday. This program features excerpts from many of his most important compositions and a live performance of his works for tympani by the San Francisco Symphony's Berry Jekowski. Jekowski will also demonstrate Carter's technique of "metric modulation." This program was recorded on December 16, 1983 by Tony Ferro, and produced for KPFA by Russ Jennings. Host of the event was Charles Amirkhanian.

11:15 Morning Reading

Stone's Throw. Jennifer Stone's favorite novels are Gertrude Stein's Melanctha and Toni Morrison's Sula. Written in 1902, Melanctha (or "black flower") was beloved by such American writers as Richard Wright and F. Scott Fitzgerald. Melanctha is a prose poem about the soul's search for itself, about a black woman's journey toward self-knowledge. Sula is the black woman who gets there. Written 70 years after Melanctha, Sula is the story of a woman who bears the mark of a rose tattoo over her eye — a black rose. (Rose is the name of the woman who Melanctha had loved more than all the men in her life). Both women do it their way and it's lonely, but as Sula says, "My lonely is mine." Such women cannot live long lives, but they live liberated ones. First of two parts.

12:00 Monday Matinee

The Sixties: What It Was, What It Wasn't. Program One: The Beginnings — The Avant-Garde Speaks Out. A series of films and discussions from the Pacific Film Archive. Following the first films, A Movie, America Today and For Life, Against the War, there was a panel discussion with: Bruce Conner, film maker, sculptor, painter, musician, draftsman, dancer; Tom Luddy, former film curator at PFA, now director of special projects for Francis Coppola's Zoetrope Studios, and producer of Mishima; R.G. Davis, free-lance stage director, founder of the R.G. Davis Mime Troupe (1959-63) and founder and director of the San Francisco Mime Troupe (1963-70); Peter Gessner, film maker, founding member of Newsreel and Cinemanifest collective. Edith Kramer, director of Pacific Film Archive. "Waking from a numbing, Eisenhower-induced Deep Sleep, American artists, poets, dancers and filmmakers surfaced in splendid profusion in the early 1960's to taunt and nibble at the margins of the old order. The duffle coats and black stockings of Beatitude gave way to long hair, happenings, and chemical consciousness. Shadows from the conflagrations in Vietnam, Newark and in Harlem entered the private world of lofts and studios and by 1966, filmmakers began to signal to each other through the flames. It was the year that Jonas Mekas organized America Today, an unusual program of films dealing experimentally with social issues and concerns. A year later, Hilary Harris, Shirley Clarke and others put out a call for three-minute statements against the war in Vietnam; over a hundred submissions were turned in, becoming For Life, Against the War. The entire role and function of the artist in a world of napalm and billy clubs was brought into question. The age-old question of art-and-politics was once more up for grabs." —Peter Gessner. Produced for radio by R.G. Davis.

11:30 Doo-Wop Delights

R&B Documents: The Smiley Lewis Special. Overton Amos Lemons, better known as Smiley Lewis, was born July 5, 1913 in De Quincy, Louisiana on the Texas border. In his teens, Smiley ran away to New Orleans where he was raised by a white family. By the mid-1930's Smiley had joined The Thomas Jefferson Dixieland Band which also included legendary pianist "Tuts" Washington. Later Lewis formed a trio with himself on guitar and played the beer joints to Rampart Street. In 1941, he was hired as vocalist by "Kid" Ernest Mollier, whose group had a steady job at The Boogie Woogie Club in Bunkie, La. By '43, most of the group was inducted into the army. As sole supporter of a growing family, Lewis found himself exempt from service, so he returned to hustling in the streets. It was not long before Lewis and "Tuts" had formed a blues trio and were playing all the clubs in the French Quarter. He would sing at these engagements without a microphone. The trio's popularity was such that in 1947 David Braun signed them to his OeLuxe label. Their first single sold poorly outside of Nola. As a result, their second was never released. In March of 1950, Oave Martholomew, then talent scout for Lew Chudd, brought the group to Imperial where their first release — "Tee Nah-Nah" (a prison song) — was recorded. It became a strong regional seller. Next came a string of not-so-successful sides for Imperial and the Colony subsidiary. Lewis' first hit of national status was "The Bells are Ringing" issued in 1952. Then followed an impressive string of regional hits, culminating in his biggest chart success — "I Hear You Knocking," issued in 1955. The show features most of this neglected artist's best Imperial R&B sides, including the scorcher, "Shame, Shame, Shame." Hosted by Opal Nations.

1:30 am Bay Leaf Experience

An experience in sound... with Lonnie Lewis.

4:30 Subgenius Thing-A-Thon

Genuine synthetic programming: Intriguing interpolations interspersed with internalized Intentions illustrating our integral ignorance of It. This idiotic idolatry irradiates its irrevocable irreverence irregardless of interference.

Saturday, July 6th

6:00 am The Gospel Experience

Traditional and contemporary gospel music with Emmit Powell.

9:00 The Other Side of the Coin

Khalid Al-Mansour gives a third world perspective on domestic and international relations.

9:30 Bud Cary's Old Radio Theatre

Because of a very busy July schedule, Bud has chosen to replay many of the shows you either missed or asked to hear again. Today's offering is a repeat from March 30, 1985 when Bud had, as his guest in the KPFA studios, Al Hart from KCBS. Bud gives our usual phone number for call-ins but don't call today. This is a repeat and there will be no one answering your call.

10:30 Focus on Women in Music

Running Low on Hope? Get a recharge with the likes of Sweet Honey in the Rock, Holly Near and Sister Boogie Woman. Produced by Susan Elisabeth.

12:00 Women's Magazine

12:00 Breaking Silence: Lesbian Nuns. Few books published by an alternative press make it into the mainstream bookhouses. Lesbian Nuns broke all sale records for such a book in its first month in the stores. Editors Rosemary Curb and Nancy Manahan join Reyna Cowan for a provocative interview on the Catholic Church, the haven of the Cloister, why women choose to be nuns, how these women resolved their deep feelings for women and maintained their religious beliefs, and how feminist women deal or have dealt with this very patriarchal religion.

1:00 Women in Academia: A Panel Discussion. Like many women workers who have entered previously all-male institutions, women college teachers experience painful isolation. Still rare in academia, women professors must constantly defend the study of women's issues, a task further complicated by the pressures of race and class. Speakers include Dr. Julianne Maxveaux and Valerie Miner. Produced by Corless Smith and Claire Reinelt.

2:00 Ahora

Latin music, news on the hour, information on what's happening in the Raza community.

3:30 Radio Venceremos: News and information from the Farabundo Marti Front for National Liberation in El Salvador (in Spanish).

5:00 Enfoque Nacional: Half-hour Spanish language news magazine.

6:00 KPFA Weekend News

6:30 Freedom Is A Constant Struggle

The voices of people surviving and resisting. Call-ins, interviews, features. Produced by Emiliano Echeverria, Barbara Lubinski, Heber and Lincoln Bergman.

British coal miners' leader Arthur Scargill. A look at the coal strike and at Prime Minister Maggie Thatcher, Sunday, July 7, 5:30pm.

KFCF 6:30 Modern Music

The many sounds of contemporary jazz and fusion with John T. or Michael Hill. Heard only on KFCF, Fresno (2½ hours).

7:00 Third World Special

One of Asia's biggest exports these days is the bride. Thousands of women, most from the Philippines, have gone abroad to marry western men. They are received with open arms while businesses are sprouting which help nurture these romances. This program explores the controversial issue of Asian mail-order brides. Phone-ins 848-4425. Produced by Maricel Pagulayan.

7:30 The Secret's Out

Get it on up. Jazz with Bari Scott. At 7:50, Calendar of Upcoming Events.

KFCF 9:00 Just Playin' Folk

Traditional and new music of Ireland with host Roger Clugston. Heard only on KFCF, Fresno (2 hours).

11:00 Ear Thyme

The sound of Bay Area jazz musicians, as heard in clubs and on records. Produced by Doug Edwards.

1:00 am Quantum Risk Radio

Join the Quantum Cat and Maurice Jerome for yet another night in morning sucking on sonics. They will endeavor to slip your synapses beyond the gravity guarded gates of earthbound radio. "Space is the place," as a Mr. Sun Ra has intoned. And as should be obvious, the Q-Cats agree.

Sunday, July 7th

5:00 am A Musical Offering

Music of all kinds, featuring lots and lots of Bach, presented by Mary Berg.

9:00 Sleepers! Awake

Bach, baroque music and political comments with Bill Sokol.

11:00 Jazz, Blues & Folk

With Phil Elwood or Chris Strachwitz.

1:00 Across The Great Divide

Folk and popular music with Robbie Osman.

2:30 Forms & Feelings

The improvisational music known as "jazz" with Jim Bennett.

4:30 Alan Watts Lectures

Lectures by the late philosopher/mystic: Psychotherapy and Metaphysics (1). Techniques of psychotherapy seem to suffer from an almost deliberate avoidance of metaphysics; that is, consideration of basic problems about the nature of man and the world and of the "good life." Metaphysics therefore lies repressed in the unconscious of most psychotherapists, with the result that psychiatry, in particular, is unwittingly influenced by 19th Century mythologies. First of four parts. 5:25 S.P.R. Charter Comments on "No New Genesis." See "Off-Mike" for details.

5:30 Tom Parkinson

On Maggie Thatcher & The Coal Strike. Tom Parkinson, professor of English on the U.C. Berkeley campus, recently spent six months as Visiting Senior Research Fellow at St. John's College at Oxford, where he observed such cultural events as Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher refused an honorary degree because of her government's non-support of the sciences. And the coal strike.

6:00 KPFA Weekend News

6:30 World Press Review

The European Press with Helga Lohr Bailey. Call-ins at 848-4425.

7:00 Radio Drama

House With A View, produced by Susan Stone, introduces a form of radio art best described as cinema-in-the-head. It is a home movie for radio in which the listener moves through an acoustical maze of rooms, guided by an invisible camera offering interior close-ups of an unusual assortment of inhabitants. The House is constructed from the dreams, confessions, lullabies and most intimate monologues of the various residents. Here, Home is where the photograph of a dead sweetheart sits on a bureau, her story told in a collage of memories; where the bathroom mirror, smeared by red slashes of lipstick, is but one of the windows with a view.

8:00 In Your Ear

Jazz and Musica Latina with Art Sato.

KFCF 8:00 Fresno Live

Twelfth Night Singers. A concert of Renaissance music and songs including three short early American pieces. The Singers are directed by Doris Egg. This concert was recorded in Fresno on May 10, 1985 at the First Congregational Church by KFCF engineer Rand L. Stover. Also, selected discs from the archives of KFCF to complete the program. Hosted by Alexander. Heard only on KFCF, Fresno (3 hours).

10:00 The Spirit of Carnival

Music of Africa and the Caribbean, hosted by David McBurnie.

The 85th anniversary of the birth of composer George Antheil is celebrated on "Ode to Gravity" Monday July 8, 9:00 pm.

11:00 Music from the Hearts of Space

Inner and outer space music, tuned to the specific vibrations of this evening, with Timotheo and Anna.

2:00 am Adagio Recordings

Music for the heart from the western classical tradition, hosted by Ellen Holmes.

5:00 As Clouds Roll By

It's 5:00 am. Do you know where the O.J. is? If we're lucky, she's not oversleeping, like the rest of you. Hosted by Monet Holmquist.

Monday, July 8th

7:00 am AM/FM

Today's guest host notes that this is the birthday of KPFA subscription/marathon honcho Marci Lockwood. Ok, Marci? Now can you tell me where you've hidden my mother? News at 7 & 8:45; Headlines at 8:00.

9:00 Morning Concert

Musique Concrete 1951-1982. Parisian composer Mark Battier brings his historical collection of electronic, electro-acoustic and musique concrete pieces. This program focuses on the output of the Paris Radio Studio, which began in 1948 and continues on today. Many of these pieces are unavailable commercially, and have never been heard on North American radio, though they represent the work of some of Europe's foremost composers. Some of those presented will be Andre Hodeir, Iannis Xenakis, Ivo Malec, Luc Ferrari, Francois Bayle and Luciano Berio. Hosted by Russ Jennings.

11:15 Morning Reading

Black Women Writers.

Annie John by Jamaica Kincaid, author of the recently acclaimed collection of stories, At The Bottom of the River. The writer tells, with compelling beauty, humor and poignancy, of Annie John's rebellious passage from childhood to adolescence on the island of Antigua in the West Indies. First of three readings by Henrietta Harris.

12:00 Monday Matinee

The Sixties: What It Was, What It Wasn't. Program Two: Magic Thinking: Views from Both Coasts. The discussion following the films, San Francisco Good Times and Last Summer Won't Happen featured: Osha (Tom) Neumann, muralist, an original member of New York's 'Up Against The Wall Motherfuckers,' currently active in Livermore Action Group and Organization for Non-Intervention in Central America; Paul Krassner, investigative satirist, founder and editor of The Realist and original founder of the Yippies.

"European surrealists, and later grizzled American wobblers, may have been the first to promote the notion of prefiguring a new society within the shell of the old, but it took American hippies to attempt to live out the dream of 1967 and the Summer of Love. Ope, sex, and rock-and-roll (not necessarily in that order) would produce the new person. Instant change: a 'parallel universe' of free newspapers, free music, free dope sprang into existence almost over night, centering at first in San Francisco's Haight Ashbury district. Not everything was mindless hippism, however. The Diggers and the SF Mime Troup build bridges to drop-out youth of the San Francisco panhandle. San Francisco Good Times chronicles the growing pains of one counter-cultural institution, an alternative newspaper. Across the continent, East Coast Flower Children faced a harder-edged reality on their concrete streets. Dismissed by both the Old and New Left, patronized by the media, the growing counter-culture became a focus for political work for activists like Abbie Hoffman, Paul Krassner and Osha (Tom) Neumann in Last Summer Won't Happen." Produced for radio by R.G. Davis.

SF ARTS FESTIVAL SATELLITE EXHIBIT

Fort Mason Center will once again participate in the annual San Francisco Arts Commission Festival. For the second year the main offices in Building A will house one of the many juried exhibits that comprise the satellite portion of this showcase of the arts. This year the jury was composed of representatives from the resident galleries, museums, and art schools at the Center. The fifteen paintings and mixed-media pieces, which were selected from a total of 149 submissions, will be on display Monday through Saturday, from 9am to 5pm, beginning July 15 and ending August 2.

7:00 The Heart of Hunger. The unprecedented worldwide response to the food crisis in Africa indicates a definite shift in public awareness and commitment regarding hunger. Monte Leach talks with a special guest about one possible scenario for the end of hunger on our planet, and the role world public opinion will play in the change.

7:30 Out On The Streets: a San Francisco audio magazine, produced by Peoples Media Collective/Haight Ashbury Community Radio.

8:00 Majority Report

The Crowell-Ootson Rape Case and the New Anti-Women's Movement. The mass media had a field day with Catherine Webb Crowell's statement that she had not been raped by Gary Dotson, but that she had made the accusation to cover up her possible pregnancy. The case serves to reinforce one of the many myths about rape — that women often fabricate the assault. In one case about to go to trial, the defense attorneys have already said their clients are victims of a similar hoax, and that the alleged victim is trying to cover up her pregnancy. The fact is that rape, like other crimes, has an approximate 2% false reporting rate. And there are other statistics that are being overlooked in the rush to invalidate the few gains women have made in the courtrooms and in the consciousness of America. Tonight we look at the increasing quantity and intensity of violence against women. Donna Howell of the National Action Against Rape and others join Ginny Z. Berson and take your calls at 848-4425.

9:00 People Playing Music

Live Bulgarian Music with the Zvezdu Ensemble (pronounced vyez-dee - meaning "stars") composed of three musicians: Karen Guggenheim on the gaida (traditional Bulgarian bagpipes), Jana Webb-Niernerberger on accordion and Tupan (Bulgarian "violin" with 3 bowed strings and 10 sympathetics). Hosted by Gerda Daly; produced by Joan Marler.

3:00 am Artifacts

Fragmentary evidence of an advanced civilization. John Rieger provides commentary and weird behavior.

Friday, July 12

7:00 am AM/FM

Our guest host finishes his/her week on the air, thinking about getting up later tomorrow. Forget it. You're scheduled to do the gospel show. . . only kidding. News at 7 & 8:45; Headlines at 8:00.

9:00 Morning Concert

The Music of Ivan Wyschnegradsky. The late Russian composer (1893-1979), who lived from 1925 in Paris, was an innovator in the field of quarter-tone music. Profoundly influenced by the mystical expression of the Russian composer Alexander Scriabin, Wyschnegradsky's music sought to extend what he perceived as a tendency in late Scriabin — a striving toward a music which would be defined in intervals smaller than the standard half-step — into a reality in his own compositions. Recently, Edition Rene Blot of West Berlin issued a two-record set of music previously unrecorded from the Wyschnegradsky oeuvre. Charles Amirkhanian introduces the music on today's program.

24 Preludes, Op. 22 (1934) — Nos. 14, 16, 17, 18, & 19. Sylvaine Billier & Martine Jose, two pianos.

Prelude et Etude, Op. 48 (1966) Martine Joste, Carrillo third-tone piano.

Etude sur les Mouvements rotatoires, Op. 45 (1961) Michel Decouste, conductor; Sylvaine Billier, Martine Jose, Jean-Francois Heisser, Jean Koerner, four pianos.

Meditation sur 2 Themes de la Journee de l'Estence, Op. 7 (1958) Jacques Wiederker, cellist; Martine Joste, piano.

Etude sur le Carre magique sonore, Op. 40 (1956) Martine Joste, piano.

Prelude et Fugue, Op. 21 (1934) Jean-Francois Heisser, Jean Koerner, two pianos.

Troisieme Fragment Symphonique, Op. 32 (1946) Decouste; Billier, Joste, Heisser, Koerner, four pianos.

The fourth side of the LP consists of an interview with the composer in French done by the young producer for Radio France, Robert Pfeiffer, who was instrumental in having started a revival of Wyschnegradsky performances just before the composer's death. A portion of this interview will be heard. The LP is available currently from Edition Blot, Schaperstrasse 11, D-1000, Berlin 15, West Germany.

11:15 Morning Reading

11:30 Doo-Wop Delights

R&B Documents: The Solitaires Special. The group formed on 142nd Street & 7th Avenue in Harlem during 1953. The original members, all "strays" from other notable outfits, were: Herman Curtis, lead; Winston "Buzzy" Willis, tenor & baritone; Bobby Baylor, tenor & baritone; Bobby Williams, tenor & piano; Monte Owens, tenor & guitar; and Pat Gaston, bass. The Solitaires, with the usual series of personnel changes, managed to stay together for a decade (1954-64). Most of this time was spent with Hy Weiss' New York-based Old Town label. Excellent ballads (from their finest period, '56 through '58) like "You've Sinned," "The Angels Sang," "Magic Rose" and "The Thrill of Love" demonstrate that the Solitaires ranked way up there with the very best vocal groups, even though they never enjoyed a nationwide chart success. The fine lead singing of Herman Curtis and later Milton Love backed by tight harmonies delivered soulfully add up to some of the finest doo-wop to emerge out of R&B's golden era. The Special will draw from the recently issued Murray Hill boxed set. Host: Dpal Nations.

1:30 am Bay Leaf Experience

An experience in sound... with Lonnie Lewis.

4:30 SubGenius Do-It-Yourself Radio

Sometime, such as soon, several secret singularities of significant seriousness shall serve to solicit solitary sleepers as SubGenius slaves, super-subceptively seducing such saps with stunning suddenness. Sobering stuff, but silly.

9:00 Morning Concert

Patchworks. San Franciscan night owls with cable TV have probably already discovered channel 35. This station, run by San Francisco State University, presents Patchworks from midnight to 6:00 am each day. An Apple II computer and a Buchla Synthesizer collaborate to create constantly changing music which viewers are invited to alter by phoning a special number where their telephone voices are used to alter the computer's instructions to the synthesizer. The system's creator, Herb Bielawa and technical designer Patric Fitzgerald join host Russ Jennings.

11:15 Morning Reading

The Real West. The literature of the western frontier read and discussed by Bob Hawley and produced by Ed Markmann.

12:00 Monday Matinee

The Sixties: What It Was, What It Wasn't. Program III: A Catch-All Time Capsule. The discussion followed the following films: Don't Look Back, Yippie Home Movie, Black Panther Film, and Conspiracy. Panelists included:

Anne Weills, labor organizer active in the women's movement, anti-Vietnam War activist, worked on Jesse Jackson's campaign, is now involved in Oakland electoral politics; Arlene Goldbard, partner in Adams & Goldbard, consulting firm specializing in collectives and other non-traditional forms of organization, lecturer at S.F. State; David Wellman, Professor of Community Studies at UC Santa Cruz, free speech movement member, and editorial board member of Leviathan and The Movement. "If Bob Dylan isn't exactly an 'event' of the sixties, surely he is a felt presence for the decade. To look once more at him now, through the direct-cinema prism of Don't Look Back is to see him navigate the difficult terrain between art and commerce, and navigate it he does, with brilliance and not a little arrogance. Dylan was certainly in a lot of heads that took the streets in the sixties. The times changed almost weekly, it seemed, as protest became civil disobedience and Yippie "disorder." Black veterans of SNCC and non-violence turned to militant, armed self-defence. The train of history was moving fast, and there appeared to be no scheduled stops. Just as the young Dylan was wooed by managers and promoters, so too, do the Chicago Eight defendants find themselves caught up in an electronic storm. On the other hand, for a movement to deny the function of leadership seems equally crippling. These films raise these important questions." —Peter Gessner. Produced for radio by R.G. Davis.

11:15 Morning Reading

Fire from the Mountain. (La Montaña es algo mas que una inmensa estepa verde) by Omar Cabezas Lacaya, Nicaraguan writer, who also acts as a Comandante in the Sandinista army. The excerpts, to be read in three parts, come from a book which won the 1982 Casa de las Americas Award in Cuba, perhaps the most prestigious literary award in the Spanish language today. Cabezas Lacaya won in the category of Testimony (Testimonio) by giving a down-to-earth, funny, moving account of his experiences as a guerrilla fighter against Somoza. This book created great excitement among the jurors of the Casa de las Americas context and it has fulfilled their expectations. The excerpts are read by Carlos Baron, Chilean writer and director of Teatro Latino. The translation is by Kathleen Weaver, with a forward note from Mexican author Carlos Fuentes. The book is published by Crown. First of three readings.

The Drums of Monimbo. In 1979, shortly after the end of the Nicaraguan revolution, a young Mexican journalist, Cesar Arias de Canal, went to Nicaragua to interview the people of Monimbo, a barrio of indigenous people located at the end of the city of Masaya, and the place where the first urban uprisings occurred that eventually exploded into revolution. The Drums of Monimbo was adapted for radio from the book, Los Tamboures de Monimbo, written by Cesar Arias de Canal, in which the people tell, in their own voices, the story of the uprisings and the revolution. Adapted by Louise Billotte and Michele Linfante, produced by Louise Billotte.

11:30 Doo-Wop Delights

R&B Oocuments: The Mighty, Mighty Clouds of Joy Special (1960-72). Both Little Willie Joe Ligon and The Clouds and James Brown enjoyed one thing in common during 1963: they both reigned supreme over devotees of deep soul music. James was secular soul brother no. 1 while the then-equally flamboyant Clouds wrecked churches so bad only Detroit's Violinaires stood a chance of matching. The group, then called "The Sensational Wonders," was organized in L.A. by Ermat Franklin, Jr. around 1958. Other members at this time were Elmer Franklin from Oakland; Richard Wallace from Taylor, Texas; Leon Polk from Austin; Johnny Martin from Houston; and the dynamic Willie Joe Ligon from Troy, Alabama. The outfit came to the attention of Don Robey, president of Houston's Peacock Records, and were subsequently signed to the label on September 28, 1960. The Clouds' first release — "Ain't Got Long Here," was charted a spiritual bestseller in 1961 and set them on the road to success. On June 5, 1963, the Clouds were given the Joe Bostic Award — gospel's highest accolade. Most of the Clouds' best recordings from the pre-pop 60's period will be aired on the show. Host: Opal Nations.

2:30 Forms & Feelings

Another profile of pianist, drummer and composer George Russell. His approach to music, formalized by the Lydian Chromatic Concept of Tonal Organization, literally calls on all periods of jazz history in its quest for combining form and freedom. The truly revolutionary body of work he has created since the late forties has had a profound effect on all of improvisational music. Included are early pieces like "Cubano Be, Cubano Bop," "Ezzthetic," "A Bird in Igor's Yard," and "All About Rosie." Also, Jazz in the Space Age, the Riverside recordings with Eric Dolphy and Sheila Jordan, Living Time with Bill Evans, and his latest album and first American release in over ten years, The African Game. You better be the first on your block to join Jim Bennett this afternoon. Or else!

11:15 Morning Reading

Writing Lives (1) Principia Biographica by Leon Edel. "Yes... writing lives is the devil", says Virginia Woolf. But in the hands of America's foremost biographer, the art of biography is a challenging and fascinating subject. Imagine yourself being biographized after the "full tale be told." What would you want to be said, what not? Imagine a scholar interested enough to want to take up the task. What have you left to draw upon? What source material is there to tell the true story? Who knows it? Oo you? With examples from the major biographers and from his own immense work on Henry James, Edel draws up a manifesto for the task of writing lives, and includes all the writings on the subject that he wishes to preserve. Five readings by Erik Bauersfeld.

12:00 Monday Matinee

The Sixties: What It Was, What It Wasn't. Program Four: Fiction and the Aftermath. A series of films and discussions from the Pacific Film Archive. Following the film Jonah Who Will Be 25 in the Year 2000, the following panelists participated: Jean-Pierre Gorin, filmmaker and teacher who co-directed films with Jean-Luc Godard between 1968 and 1972 (Struggle in Italy, Wind from the East, Tout va Bien, Vladimir and Rosa) directed Poto and Cabengo (1979) and Club Night, a work in progress; R.G. Davis, stage director, founder and director (1963-70) of the S.F. Mime Troupe. Todd Gitlin, author of Inside Prime Time, Noel Coward. Humorous music, by Coward, Elsa Lanchester, Gracie Fields and others is heard on the Morning Concert, Tuesday July 23rd, 9:00 am.

Associate Professor of Sociology & director of the Mass Communications Program at U.C. Berkeley.

"Once in a great while, a narrative fiction work catches the trajectory of the times. The sixties' tumult and passion left little room for reflection, for pause. With the exceptions of Godard, Gorin, Kramer, Pasolini and some others, most radical filmmakers avoided the fiction form. We turn now to Alain Tanner and critic/novelist John Berger to learn about ourselves. Unlike their counterparts in The Big Chill, the characters in Jonah look and act as if they were a part of the sixties." — Peter Gessner. Produced for radio by R.G. Davis

9:00 The Early Music Program

The Musical Revolution of 1600, Part Two. Second of three programs produced by Bill Croft tracing the revolutionary changes in Western music which occurred around 1600 as seen through the eyes of Claudio Monteverdi (1567-1643) who was chiefly responsible for this change. Tonight's program features music from 1605 to around 1620, when Monteverdi was at the height of his fame at San Marco in Venice. The last works of Victoria, Gesualdo and Gabrieli will be contrasted with Monteverdi's L'Orfeo, the 1610 vespers and his madrigals, Books 5, 6 and 7. These, in turn, will be compared to contemporary works of Gabrieli, d'India and Frescobaldi. The third program will air August 19th and presents music from 1620 to around 1643.

Judy Meyhan and Andrei Kitaev Live. Judy Mayhan is a veteran singer/songwriter with several albums to her credit. Her career began in the early 1960's with the folk music scene in New York City. Although her voice and personal style have undergone enormous changes during the last 25 years (she is now singing jazz) — her ability to transmit intense emotional honesty and depth of soul has continually developed. She has found her equal in artistry and musicianship with the Russian jazz pianist Andrei Kitaev. Coming from a family of classical pianists in the USSR, Kitaev received the finest musical education, having graduated from the prestigious Gnessen School in Moscow. His desire to become a jazz pianist could only have been fulfilled by coming to this country. Phil Elwood remarked, "A truly magnificent addition to our Bay Area jazz scene, Kitaev deserves recognition." Hosted by Tony Ferro and produced by Joan Marler.
